International Studies Institute GA announcement

The International Studies Institute is looking for a GA for Fall 2022-Spring 2023, with possible continuation during the 2023-2024 academic year. This is a .25 position (10 hours/week). The GA will provide support for two courses in International Studies (INTS 1101 and 400), maintain the website and create a social media presence, and assist with occasional ISI events such as the Contemporary Jewish Studies Lecture Series. It is not necessary, but would help if the GA could speak and write a language other than English. As compensation, the GA receives 6 hours of tuition waiver, health insurance, and a salary dependent on one's graduate status (pre-Masters $3,307.91/semester; post-Masters $3,638.89/semester - See http://grad.unm.edu/funding/assistantships.html).

Interested students should contact Steve Bishop (sbishop@unm.edu) with a brief e-mail, a short cv, and a cover letter detailing why the graduate student would be good for the position. Interviews will be scheduled in the first week of March. For best consideration, please respond by Friday, February 28th, 2022.
